Bench

Jean-Marie Massaud's 'Home Hotel' bench, part of a collection he developed for Poliform, is designed to blend seamlessly into both domestic and commercial interiors.

Cabinet

Staffan Holm used quintessentially Japanese materials, such as hinoki wood and sumi-dyed ash, to create his cabinet for Ariake, which pays tribute to traditional kumiko screens.

Room divider

Inspired by a coat hanger, Luis Arrivillaga's 'Ceiba' screen for Living Divani features a white linen canvas adorning an elegant wooden frame.

Chaise longue

The 'Quindici' chaise longue marks the third collaboration between Mattiazzi and the Bouroullecs. This version in natural ash is combined with fabric by Kvadrat/Raf Simons.

Sofa

Piero Lissoni's 'Saké' sofa is, according to the designer, 'a platform on which to float in peace'. His inaugural design for B&B Italia, punctuated by modular stitching, appears to be magically suspended in the air, like a flying carpet.

Sake

Architect Tsuyoshi Tane's sake bottle for the Akita brewing alliance Nexts has rice grains attached, creating a tactile surface. We're serving the sake in a set of glasses by Nendo.
